

WORK MANAGEMENT SYSTEM, WORK MANAGEMENT APPARATUS AND WORK MANAGEMENT METHOD
ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A work management system has a work management apparatus and a plurality of user terminals connected by a network. The work management apparatus stores employee information on employees and work management information for setting work contents of the employees, generates working schedule information indicating working schedules of the employees based on the employee information and the work management information, and sends the generated employee and management information to the user terminals through the network. The user terminals receives and displays the working schedule information.